President To Send 10 Billion Dollar Program To The Congress

By Edwin B. Haackinson
WASHINGTON, July 22—(AP)—President Truman plans to send Congress next Tuesday a blue-print of his $10,000,000,000 program to help fight the Korean war and guard against Communist aggression elsewhere.

It will be in the form of a detailed request for the huge appropriation designed to carry out partial mobilization of the nation's military strength. The White House said today the president hoped to have it ready by Tuesday.

On Wednesday the nation may get the first tip-off on the extent of the new taxes which will be asked to finance the $10,000,000,000 program—and the additional billions which will be sought later.

Also Economic Report

On that day the president will send to Congress the mid-year economic report of his council of economic advisers, along with an economic message of his own.

These are expected to give, not only official views on the state of the national economy, but on the control steps necessary to safeguard it from inflation.

While Congress members prepared today to tackle the heavy legislative tasks ahead, one of their number warned that the program of partial mobilization is not enough.

"We must face up to an all-out mobilization," Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.), member of the senate armed services committee, told a reporter.

Jaycees Secure Blood Donors

Since the Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce took over the Walking Blood Bank, about a month ago, as one of its permanent projects, the young organization has accounted for 100 blood donors.

To further promote this worthwhile cause, the Jaycees pulled a publicity stunt Saturday afternoon, by powering a float set up on a truck, up and down Chilo avenue.

Two hospital beds, nurses doctors and a patient was aboard the float, with a number of Jaycee members surrounding the float, passing out blood donor cards to the public to fill out.

Yvonne Bohon and Nellie Asher were the two young women, posing as nurses.

Chris Rau, Frank Evans, Bob Wall, Michael Bogutski, Kenneth Schlab and Bob Yonager, all Jaycees, distributed blood donor cards to the public that day.

Bob Wall, president, said the Jaycees have secured Town and Country Shoe company as a unit, as volunteers for the Walking Blood Bank.

Officers Named For Park Board

Officers were elected by the members of the Sedalia Park Board at a meeting held in the city hall, Friday night.

Jack M. Cunningham was elected chairman; Cline Cain, re-elected secretary and A. W. Haller, treasurer.

It was the first meeting for Cunningham, Haller, Harry W. Walsh, and W. E. Miller, who were all appointed as new park board members at the last council meeting.

Besides the election of officers, routine matters on the Sedalia parks were discussed.

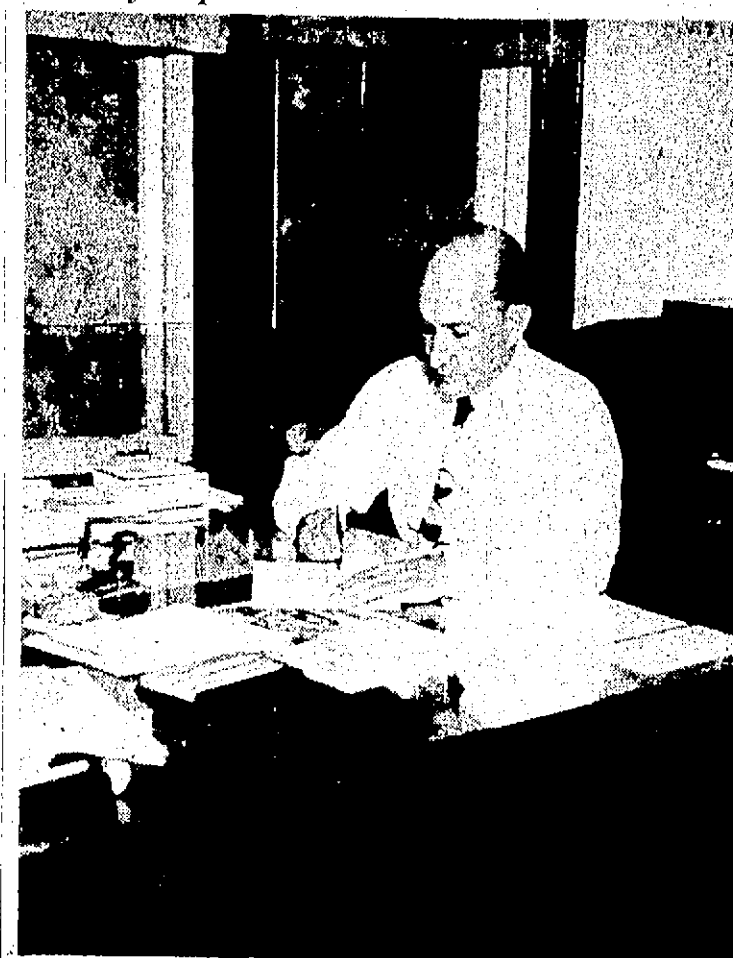

This is the first time for six board members to serve in the history of the Sedalia Park Board. The original park board when it was first formulated in Sedalia consisted of three members, then it changed to five members in 1933.

Outgoing Park Board members are Joseph W. Reid, Lindsey Hayden, and H. A. Rapp.

Larger Exhibit Of Machinery

One of the greatest machinery exhibits ever assembled will be seen at the Missouri State Fair, August 20-27. Practically all previous national known exhibits will be represented, along with many new ones. Even in the interval of one year, there has been a great improvement in many types of machinery, a fact which makes the exhibit all the more interesting to farmers and their families.

Rotary Speaker

Rollo E. Singleton, acting secretary of the Missouri State Fair, who will be guest speaker at the Rotary club luncheon meeting at the Bothwell hotel Monday noon. Kenneth C. Love, president, will be in charge of the business session. Charles Hoffmeyer, program chairman for the day.

Have Start On Next Inaugural

WASHINGTON, July 22—(AP)—The 1949 inauguration was a financial success in spite of the fact Congress got grandstand seats for free and the government taxed the whole thing $62,870 as an "amusement."

Chairman Melvin C. Hildreth of the inaugural committee announced in a report today that the committee is handling over $10,000 in trust to get the 1953 inaugural ceremonies started right. Also $20,000 worth of stored-away flags and seals of states and nations.

In addition, the 1949 celebration earned $47,500 which was earmarked for Washington charities. Congress ought to kick in with the cost of the official viewing stand for the parade at the very least, Hildreth observed.

Former Prime Minister Of Canada Dies

MacKenzie King Helped Relations Across Border

OTTAWA, July 22—(AP)—William Lyon MacKenzie King, 75, former Prime Minister of Canada and a veteran of British Commonwealth and world political affairs, died tonight at Kingsmere, his summer home 20 miles from Ottawa.

King's physician said his death was caused by "hypostatic pneumonia, preceded by an attack of acute pulmonary edema" (accumulation of body fluid).

Stricken Thursday, he lapsed into unconsciousness. King voluntarily relinquished the prime ministry and leadership of the Liberal party in 1948 after setting a record for holding such posts in the British Commonwealth and Empire.

One of his outstanding achievements in office was the strengthening of relations between Canada and the United States. His efforts in this direction were intensified during World War II and were made easier through his close personal friendship with President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

King was a bachelor. Several nieces and nephews were at his bedside when death came.

Bakers At The Taystee Plant Go On Strike

Picket Line Set Up In Afternoon On Saturday

The local Baker's and Confectioners' union 408 called a strike of the Taystee Bread, Inc., plant at 1:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The strike order applies to twenty-eight of the workers inside.

The union's contract which ran out April 1st had provided for an average wage of $51.80 for these workers and they are now asking an increase of ten cents an hour which would amount to about $4.00 more per week or make the average wage $55.80. The union is also asking for improved working conditions.

The union and management of the plant have been working on a new contract since April 1 but have not been able to reach an agreement and then when they failed to negotiate differences Saturday morning the strike was called immediately.

A report through manager Elmer Dillard Saturday night said no settlement had been reached.

Serves Seventy Mile Area

The company located in Sedalia serves an area of a seventy mile radius.

The union has established a picket line in front of the plant building which is located on the northwest corner of Main street and Prospect avenue and all the members in the plant who are in the labor unions have declared they will honor the picket lines.

Omar Simon, secretary-treasurer of the local, and the chairman of the negotiating committee said "we will keep the picket lines going until we can reach a satisfactory agreement."

The new contract when signed will be counted as having come into effect on the first of April of this year.

The president of the union is Ted Simons.

Shigenori Togo Dies In Prison

TOKYO, Sunday, July 23—(AP)—The death of Shigenori Togo, one of the top Japanese war lords convicted on charges of masterminding the Dec. 7, 1941, attack on Pearl Harbor and Singapore, was announced today by U. S. Army authorities.

Togo, sentenced in 1948 to 20 years imprisonment, died in Sugamo prison. Army officials said they had no details on the cause or time of his death. He was 68.

When Pearl Harbor was attacked, Togo was Foreign Minister in the cabinet of General Hideki Tojo, Premier of Japan.

Texas Governor Re-Elected By Overwhelming Majority

DALLAS, July 22—(AP)—Lanky, handsome Gov. Allan Shivers won his first full term tonight. Case Shivers his nearest opponent, conceded he was beaten at 10 p. m. (CST), with Shivers leading him more than three to one.

Figures from the Texas election bureau—based on incomplete returns from 74 of the state's 254 counties—gave Shivers 68,112 votes to 18,413 for Case March. Former Baylor university law professor Five other candidates trailed far behind March.

150,520,000 Is Population Of The U. S.

Estimate Shows It 19,000,000 Over The Total In 1940

WASHINGTON, July 22—(AP)—The census bureau today estimated the 1950 population of the United States at 150,520,000 men, women and children.

This is almost 19,000,000 higher than the 1940 total of 131,609,275.

At the same time, the bureau announced preliminary totals for all of the states and the District of Columbia.

The figures, when carefully checked and revised where necessary, will be used by Congress to help determine how many representatives each state will be entitled to in the House.

That information was not immediately available, and census officials said it probably would not be for some time.

For one thing, they said, the total figure includes an estimated 700,000 persons—mostly transients and merchant marine crews—whose home states are not yet definitely known.

But officials called attention to estimates made in 1948 by the House postoffice committee which shows California gaining 8 seats and New York and Pennsylvania losing 3 seats and 2 seats respectively. They said these figures likely will not be off by more than one.

Missouri May Lost Seat

Other changes indicated by the 1948 House estimate:

Arkansas, Georgia, Illinois, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, all likely to lose one seat.

Florida, Indiana, Michigan, Oregon, Texas, and Washington likely to gain one.

Dr. A. Ross Eckler, deputy director of the census bureau, said in noting these figures that on the basis of returns from this year's census—the greatest changes from the estimates are likely to occur in the Pacific northwest—which did not pick up as much population as estimated two years ago—and in the south, which ran ahead of estimates.

The figures announced today were just preliminary totals. The final figure will be reached by the census bureau some time before December 1, on which date the secretary of commerce must send them to President Truman.

The President will pass the figures on to Congress, probably later that month. The exact totals will not be known until then.

The state-by-state figures most of which had previously been released by census offices across the country—show California to be the biggest gainer in population, both in total and in the percentage of increase since 1940.

California gained 3,565,000 persons in the 10-year period, for an increase of 31.6 per cent over its 1940 population of 6,907,387. While New York ranked second in number of persons gained—1,264,000—its percentage increase was relatively slight: 9.4 per cent.

The surge in California's population—which was reflected by gains throughout the Pacific far west generally—brought it from fifth place among the states in 1940 to second place this year, with 10,472,348 persons compared with third-place Pennsylvania's 10,485,965.

Officials emphasized, however, that these figures are not final. They said the possibility cannot be ruled out that California will slip back one notch in the standings when the totals have been rechecked and the 700,000 transients and sailors properly assigned.

In all, just five states showed decreases in population in a period when the population of the nation as a whole was jumping almost 19,000,000. The losers were Arkansas, which slipped two per cent from 1940 to a 1,900,246 total; Mississippi, down one percent to 2,177,006; Nebraska, minus 5 per cent to 1,806,394; North Dakota, down four per cent to 616,185; and Oklahoma, which dropped 3 per cent to 2,230,253.

Big percentage gains were registered among some of the states with the smallest numerical population. Arizona, which ranks 11 states from the end of the list in numerical size, was second only in percentage increase since 1940.

Arizona's population rose 48.7 per cent in the 10 years, from 469,261 to about 742,354.

Nevada, the nation's smallest state in terms of population, showed a 37.7 per cent increase from 110,247 in 1940 to 152,273.

Other big gainers: Florida, up 44.1 per cent to a total of 2,734,085; Oregon, up 38.6 per cent to 1,510,148; Washington, up 36 per cent to 2,361,261; Maryland, up 27.5 per cent to 2,322,657; New Mexico, up 27.3 per cent to 677,099.

Other figures: Missouri up 3.7 to 3,054,229.

Move Gates For Fair Grounds Entry

Congestion of traffic has usually been a serious factor at the Missouri State Fair in Sedalia, especially on the busiest days in the middle of the week, but much of this will be obviated this year by gates not previously used in several years. The flow of traffic will be sped up and will move into and out of the grounds more evenly. The Fair will be held August 20-27.

Big Burden On U. S. If War Comes

Half Of Taxpayer's Money Will Be Spent For Defense

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 22—(AP)—If war comes between the West and Russia, the United States will have to fight and pay the lion's share of it.

A glimpse at western Europe's defenses today shows them not only feeble and inadequate, but with little prospect of real strengthening in the future.

President Truman's request Wednesday for $10,000,000,000 (B) more for defense means each American taxpayer will be paying nearly 50 cents out of each dollar of his taxes for defense.

No Western European is paying more than 25 cents on each dollar and most of them far less for their defense.

There are varied reasons why some nations are not paying more. Many suffered such heavy war damage they have had to devote their attentions to rebuilding economically. France cannot get large defense budgets through her strife-torn assembly without tumbling the government.

Budgets Of Nations

Budgets of seven of the major nations of Western Europe show a total of less than $4,000,000,000 will be spent on arms this year. This compares with $23,000,000,000 being spent by the United States, which represents 48 per cent of total U. S. government expenditures.

Comparative defense budgets (all in dollars):

| Nation      | for defense percent of total budget |
|-------------|-------------------------------------|
| Britain     | 2,186,300,000 20                    |
| France      | 1,200,000,000 18.9                  |
| Netherlands | 223,000,000 25                      |
| Belgium     | 163,662,550 11                      |
| Italy       | 23,000,000 6.5                      |
| Denmark     | 48,000,000 16.5                     |
| Norway      | 40,000,000 12.5                     |

(X) Total Italian defense budget is $538,340,000, but major portion goes to civil aviation, velox administration, housing etc.

The defenses of western Europe, on a comparative basis, are far weaker than those which opposed the German invasion in 1940. The 1940 armies crumbled in six weeks.

Of the $4,000,000,000, a large share is not being spent on European defense but on the French war against Communist-led Nationalists in Indo-China and the British campaign against guerrilla bands in Malaya.

Wasteful Spending

Furthermore, large sums of money are being spent wastefully in duplication of services, with each little country trying to have its own air force, army and navy.

The North Atlantic Council has agreed to the principle of "collective security" under which each nation would specialize in a certain type of armed force and pool their resources in danger. But virtually no progress has been made in carrying it out.

Even if all the Western European nations would put aside their sovereignty, increase their budgets and push building up their defenses, military men estimate it would take a minimum of two and probably four years to build up adequate forces to balance current Russian power.

Military men here are not optimistic about such an effort.

The bulk of Western Europe's

Summons To Guards Order

WASHINGTON, July 22—(AP)—The Army said today that the active duty summons going out to some non-divisional National Guard units is an order.

A spokesman explained that wherever the guard is brought into federal service it is done by order. A "call" is issued to the guard when it is being brought into action under state control.

The actual mechanics of ordering guard units to duty in the present instance were outlined as follows:

Secretary of the Army Foy Kohler sent a letter to the governor of states from which guard units are being ordered up. This letter advises the governors that special units are being alerted for movement in the near future.

It informs them also that the actual orders for the movement will be issued by Army commanders of the six Army areas into which the United States is divided.

Bad Weather Limited Activity In Korea

TOKYO, Sunday, July 23—(AP)—Superfortress bombers carried the brunt of the air war against the North Koreans Saturday as bad weather drastically limited activity. Far East Air Force headquarters announced today.

The big Boeings of the Far East bombers command ranged north of the 38th parallel, dropping more than 100 tons of high explosives, a communique said. The weather necessitated radar bombing results will not be known until reconnaissance planes report later.

The weather allowed ground-supporting allied fighters to make only a single effective mission around the Taejon front, the communique said. Fifth Air Force jets hit 13 trucks, six horse-drawn artillery pieces and two other vehicles.

American and South Korean ground forces had taken 44 Friday from the Reds under cover of naval barrage.

TOKYO, Sunday, July 23—(AP)—A big American aircraft carrier loaded with reinforcing war planes arrived here today after what is believed to be the fastest Pacific crossing—eight days and seven hours from the U. S. West coast.

The 27,000-ton carrier, identity of which can't be revealed, also brought what its officers believed was the largest number of aircraft ever carried on a flat-top.

This number also can not be disclosed but it was revealed the plane load consisted of F-51 Mustang fighter planes for use of the land-based air forces.

Navy Capt. Cameron Briggs, son of General W. R. Briggs of San Francisco, commanded the carrier on its fast crossing.

He took command shortly before the voyage.

TOKYO, Sunday, July 23—(AP)—North Korean troops and armor were forming Saturday night for new assaults on American positions—reinforced with fresh defenders—east and southeast of shattered Taejon.

American artillery fired intermittently on the Korean Communist forces, said the late field dispatches, in an effort to deny the enemy access to the Taejon-Yongdong road and the double-tracked railway that parallels it southeastward out of Taejon.

It was astute this 27-mile road that the new American defense line was being consolidated, said General MacArthur's communique early Sunday morning.

Other sectors to the east were relatively quiet.

Despite murky weather, American tactical air forces strafed the Reds in Taejon Saturday.

A dispatch from an American command post on the western sector, timed late Saturday, said new American troops were in the line and were determined to give the Reds their first licking on that front near Taejon.

In Constant Contact

MacArthur's communique said "constant contact" was being maintained with the North Korean forces to determine just what direction they would take on their expected next offensive push to the south and southeast. Identity of the American reinforcements was not disclosed.

(It seemed likely however that elements of the First Cavalry (Infantry) division or possibly the 25th Tropic Lightning Infantry division had been rushed west to fill in gaps in the ranks of the valiant 24th division.)

In 18 days of grim battling for time, the 24th division outnumbered at time 26-to-1—had yielded.

Training Meet Is Held For Committees

Representatives of Four Counties at FHA Meeting

The annual committee training meeting for the advisory committees of the Farmers Home Administration from Benton, Johnson, Pettis and Saline counties was held in Sedalia, Thursday of last week. Arthur I. Stanley, state field representative of Columbia, Mo., led the group discussions. Those attending from Benton county were, Charles Ikerberry, county supervisor, Harold E. Bailey, John R. Poague and Harold C. Price; from Johnson county, Walter Bure, county supervisor, James Boyer, assistant county supervisor, Elmer Hobson, George Beard, and Norman Briscoe; from Pettis county, Oscar H. DeWolf, county supervisor, Arthur Meyer, James A. Harvey and Carl A. Johnson; from Saline county, John H. McClure, county supervisor, William Bousley, and Charles LaRue.

Sound Credit

In opening the discussion, Mr. Stanley pointed out that sound agricultural credit and needed supervisory assistance is provided eligible farmers through the county office and Farmers Home Administration. A county supervisor is in charge of each county office and is responsible to the state director for all phases of the FHA program in the county or counties assigned to him. A county committee is appointed for each county. This committee is made up of three members, two of which must be bona fide farmers and are recognized as outstanding operators and leaders in their respective communities. Stanley went on to add that the important duty and responsibility of each county committee was to pass on the eligibility of applicants for services offered by the Farmers Home Administration and that no assistance can be extended applicants without first receiving favorable action from the county committee. Another important duty he pointed out was to make annual review of all borrowers with the assistance of the county supervisor and make recommendations as to whether or not continued assistance should be extended since the Congress had made it unmistakably clear that all borrowers must make progress in loan repayment and improvement in their farm and home practices.

The training portion of the meeting was devoted to the possible problems that could come up with the consideration of applications and other functions of the county committee.

Recruiter Here Is Kept Busy

Sgt. John Stacy, local Army and Air Force recruiter, pointed out Friday afternoon, that since increased number of draftees are being called for physical examinations, prospective enlistments have jumped considerably higher, than previous weeks of recruiting duty. Sedalia and Warrensburg together, except to send about fourteen volunteers to St. Louis for induction the first of the week, with the majority of enlistments coming from Sedalia, the recruiter reported.

Sgt. Stacy also said that with the draft inductions pending, many of the men in the draft age group have questioned him concerning what choice they would have if drafted.

If a man in the 18-26 age limit is drafted he is subject to serve in which armed force he is assigned to and not only that service but the divisions in those services. "For instance" Sgt. Stacy explained, "if a man is called into the service and assigned to the army he has no choice in which division he will serve, such as the artillery, infantry or the armored division." But when an enlistee is inducted into the army which he has already chosen, he is given the choice of which division he will be a part.

The recruiting office which is located on the top floor of the post office building is open now from 8:00 a. m. until 9:00 p. m. except on Saturday and Sundays when the office closes at 5:00 p. m.

Ulcers Are no Asset

VANCOUVER—(AP)—If you have ulcers don't think they'll drive you to success.

Dr. R. L. Sanders, professor of clinical surgery, University of Tennessee, told the medical school here that the nervous drive of a man with duodenal ulcers is more than offset by the worrying he does.

"The man with duodenal ulcers is more likely to spend his time in trying to alleviate the pain that gnaws at his vitals," he said. "He is the worrying type and is less likely to succeed for that reason."

Menefee Has Big Road Contract

The Menefee Construction company, of this city, has a big contract for improvement and modernizing of a stretch of Highway 40, in Boone and Callaway counties, it being for 10.9 miles. It is to be constructed with cutting down of some hills, building the roadway higher in valleys and eliminating most of the curves to provide for traffic at 60 miles per hour instead of the present 35 miles per hour.

The laying of concrete is expected to begin August 1. Already most of the bridges required have been completed.

Although the new pavement crosses the old at five separate points no detouring is necessary, although traffic is slowed and some by-passes are necessary during construction.

The 10-mile road represents the longest length of unimproved U. S. No. 40 between Columbia and St. Louis. The next longest is some 3.5 miles in Callaway county, which is to be placed under contract for modernization this year.

The new pavement will be twenty-four feet wide, six feet wider than the current road, and the 10-mile stretch is to cost $1,200,000—comparing with $440,570 spent on the original pavement in 1926.

Don't Be Satisfied With Symptomatic Relief!

RELIEVE THE REAL CAUSE OF YOUR STOMACH DISTRESS—

Indigestion, Gas Pains, Heartburn, Bloating when Due to Vitamin B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Iron and Niacin Deficiencies

ONE OF THE GREATEST BLESSINGS OF THE TIMES!

Here is some wonderful news for you folks who suffer so from stomach disturbances (indigestion, gas, heartburn, sour risings in your throat after meals) because your system lacks the important Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Iron and Niacin.

Now—thanks to the great new HADACOL—you can actually relieve the REAL CAUSE of such stomach disturbances caused by these deficiencies. A marked improvement is often noticed within a few days' time. And continued use of HADACOL not only gives continuous complete relief but helps prevent such distress from coming back. That's the kind of product you want—the kind you should buy—the kind you should start taking immediately.

Anyone would be very foolish indeed to be satisfied with symptomatic relief when HADACOL now makes it possible to relieve the very cause of this stomach distress due to such deficiencies—know the joy of eating the foods you like without belching and suffering gas pains, heartburn and torturing indigestion afterwards!

How HADACOL Works...

HADACOL not only supplies weak, run-down, deficient systems with extra quantities of Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Iron and Niacin but also beneficial amounts of precious Calcium, Phosphorus and Manganese—so vital to help maintain good health.

And these vitamins and minerals come in special liquid form so that they can be more easily and quickly absorbed and assimilated in the blood—ready to go right to work at once. HADACOL even reinforces your red blood cells (where iron is needed) to carry these healthful elements to every organ in your body—to the kidneys, lungs, liver and heart—even to the nails, eyes and hair.

Start taking HADACOL at once. HADACOL costs only a small amount a day. Trial-size bottle, $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50.

Just a Few of Thousands of Folks With Such Deficiencies Who Have Been Helped!

Alton E. Brazile, 905 Blythe Street, Memphis, Tennessee, wants our readers to know: "I've been bothered with my stomach; I went on diets which made me very weak. I tried everything and spent hundreds of dollars to no avail until I tried HADACOL. My stomach quit bothering me after the second bottle. I have a better appetite and feel fine. Thanks to HADACOL."

Pretty Mrs. Alma Kincaid, 2125 East Adelaide Street, St. Louis, Missouri, told us this: "I want you to know how much better I feel since I've taken HADACOL. I've had stomach distress for quite a while. But nothing did me any good. They just said I had a nervous stomach. This is my second bottle of HADACOL and I really feel fine. I'm not nervous; I never feel tired. I can eat anything I want to."

J. Strivacka, Route 2, Box 85, Burton, Texas, sent us this letter: "I've suffered from stomach gas and bloating for some time. I had no pep in the morning, felt sick. But with the first bottle of HADACOL I felt much better. With the second bottle I felt still better. Coated tongue is gone. I never felt as good. Thanks to HADACOL."

Mrs. I. E. Nelvis, Sr., 2622-A St. Vincent Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri: "I could hardly eat anything at all that did not hurt my stomach. Now I eat anything I want and it doesn't hurt me. I can't praise HADACOL enough and have recommended it to all my friends and neighbors. I feel much better since I have been taking HADACOL."

Mrs. Alton C. Stottsberry, Monroe St., Plymouth, North Carolina: "I am 31 year old. I have suffered distress from my stomach off and on for quite some time. I had to almost give up and stay in bed. Nothing has helped me like HADACOL. I have just taken it for two weeks. I have gotten wonderful relief. I think HADACOL is wonderful. My husband is 41 years old. He started taking HADACOL today; I am going to start giving it to my children."

Marcus Matthews, Route 1, Vanzant, Kentucky: "I had been bothered with my stomach. Everything I ate disagreed with me. But after taking 3 bottles of HADACOL I can eat anything and feel fine at all times. I don't have to take any more soda after each meal. I can recommend HADACOL for your stomach."

Many Stars In Big Leagues Are Subject To Be Drafted

NEW YORK, July 22—(AP)—The opening crisis in Korea threatened today to call some of the major leagues' brightest young stars to service in the armed forces.

Both the American and National league races could be affected vitally by selective service action on the summons of reserves to active duty.

Cut Simmons, pitching ace of the Philadelphia Phillies in the National league, will do two weeks of National Guard duty in August. Whether this might be extended depends on decisions in Washington.

Art Houtteman, star pitcher of the American league-leading Detroit Tigers, is 22 and 1-A in the draft. Al Rosen, Cleveland's home hitting rookie, holds a Naval reserve commission. Eleven members of the Philadelphia Athletics are members of reserve groups.

Almost every club in either league would be affected if there is a big expansion in service calls. Here's a rundown by clubs:

American League

Athletics — Coleman, Hooper, Kellner, Schmitt, Shantz, Tipton, Fair, Hitchcock, Suder, Chapman, Leher, McCoskey and Valo all in some reserve group.

Red Sox — Williams, Pesky and Tobbetts hold inactive reserve commissions, Chuck Stobbs, Maurice McDermott, Gordon Miller, William Nixon all in 1-A draft.

Yankees — Bob Kennedy, Marine reserve lieutenant and already ordered to take physical, Al Rosen, inactive Naval commission; Ray Murray, in Army reserve.

Tigers — Art Houtteman in 1-A draft.

Yankees — Bobby Brown, commissioner in Naval medical reserve; Bill Martin and Ed Ford 1-A in draft.

White Sox — Ray Scarborough and Gene Altringer, Franko Laro in Naval reserve. Lane already ordered to take physical.

Washington — None in reserves and none in National Guard. Eddie Yost and Irv Noren both below the 26-year old age maximum of current draft.

National League

Cardinals — George (Red) Merger and Cloyd Boyer both in reserves.

Phillies — Cut Simmons in National Guard and ordered to report for 12½ in mid-August because of youth program, running date prohibits.

Browns — John Antonelli and Del Crandall, both 1-A in draft.

Noor Captured $50,000 Race

INGLEWOOD, Cal., July 22—(AP)—Noor, the dark conqueror from Ireland, picked up today where he left off with Citation a month ago and captured the $50,000 American handicap.

The great handicap horse spotted the field 20 pounds more and came through with a close but rousing triumph before 48,300 frenzied fans at Hollywood Park.

An upstart young colt from Virginia, Dharan, almost sent the red and white silks of the late Charles S. Howard trailing in the dust.

But the all-star combination of Jockey Johnny Longden and Noor mustered a final burst of speed and hit the wire half a length ahead of Dharan and lightweight Nick Wall.

Frankly, racing for Frank Fianckel of Houston, Tex., was a surprise third, while the feared little giant killer from the Argentine, Michel, and Clifford Moores' old Rockport, after duelling each other for the lead in the earlier stages, trailed fourth and fifth.

Noor packed the heaviest weight of his career—132 pounds, and 30 pounds more than Dharan—but came within a fifth of a second of the track record. He traveled the mile and one quarter in 2:00 1/5.

Red Sox Turned Back Browns 11-2

BOSTON, July 22—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox were given their first nine-inning pitching stunt in 10 games and the fifth in their last 25 games today when Lefty Naury McDermott turned back the St. Louis Browns, 11-2.

While going the full distance for the first time since May 12, McDermott gave the Browns eight scattered hits and seven bases on balls. He now has a 6-1 record.

The Red Sox slugged out 14 hits against three Brownie pitchers. One of the blows was Bobby Doerr's 14th homer and 100th safety of the season.

Walt Dropo, who started out in a top place American league batting tie with Detroit's George Kell, was blanked for the first time in 12 games.

The Red Sox scored five runs on four hits against starter Dick Starr in three innings, added four more counters at the expense of Jack Bruner in four frames and then collected their last two runs off Duane Pillette in the eighth.

Reports Theft Of Vegetables

The recent trends in hoarding and stocking up on articles that were scarce in the last war and which some people seem to think will be scarce during the conflict now on in Korea has not only affected the wholesale and retail merchants of Sedalia, but also it has perhaps caused some anguish to private citizens.

Henry Crowbaker, 301 North Montauque avenue, reported to the police Saturday morning that someone had been in his garden and had stolen some cabbage, beans and tomatoes.

He asked if the officers would investigate around the garden sometime during the night to see if they could find out who was doing the thievery.

Reserve Supply Of Ice For State Fair

There will be no shortage of ice at the state fair in Sedalia this year, the concessions department having announced that more than half a million pounds has already been frozen and put in reserve for fair use, August 20-27.

Officers To Fort Wood

Logistical Study For Six-Day Period There

More than eighty reserve officers, ranging in rank from full colonels to second lieutenants and arriving from units in seven Central Missouri towns, began work at Ft. Leonard Wood, Friday on a six-day field problem with the 5058th Logistical Division.

Officers ordered to Ft. Wood came from Sedalia, Marshall, Booneville, Columbia, Mexico, Mo., and Jefferson City. They came under the command of Col. David J. Colyer of Jefferson City, division commander. Col. Colver, division commander, and G-4 of IV Corps in Italy during the last war, is safety engineer for the State Highway Department.

The 5058th includes locality commands at the seven cities and contains officers from a dozen other towns. Locality commanders are Col. James Noran, Sedalia; Col. Paul Burge, Booneville; Lt. Col. Archie Lawless, Marshall; Lt. Col. Norman Renick, Columbia; Col. Richard J. Chamer, Moberly; Lt. Col. Joe F. Williams, Jefferson City, and Lt. Col. William F. Stevens, Mexico. The division's chief of staff is Col. Harold W. Holloway, Jefferson City.

Logistical divisions are a new Army concept for support of combat troops, under which all supply transportation, maintenance and other facilities are united into a single command under a single general staff to coordinate all support. Highly flexible, a logistical division may support a single corps or expanded through attachment of additional units, support any army or even any army group.

Bobby Gim, the bobby soxer's pride from Indianapolis, will compete in Sedalia on both of the speedway-type racing dates—Sunday, August 20 and Saturday, August 26.

Only 23 years old, Bobby has been driving the big cars just a little more than two years but in that time has rocketed to the top on the dirt tracks. Last year he broke the world record for 20 laps out then saw the veteran Deb Snyder of Kent, O., break the mark he set later in the season.

Snyder is one of the old-timers who will be competing here, another is Pat Cunningham of St. Joseph, Mo., who has more than 25 years of driving behind him.

Also well seasoned in the speed business are Fritz Tegtmeier, the "Flying Dutchman" from Egin, Ill.; Phil Moore, the little St. Louis ace who has been driving since 1932; and Bert Hellmueler of Louisville, Ky., the red-haired owner of the Ben Shaw Curtiss Special, the same car in which Shaw won the eastern championship several years ago.

WAC's Fighting Excess Poundage as the Calories Go A-Rolling Along

PRESENT FORK might be the command for this WAC non-com at chowtime. If she needs to, she'll be put on a 2400-calorie, weight-reducing diet.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

Join the WACs, girls, and get yourself a streamlined figure as a dividend while you lend a hand in the Korean crisis.

It just so happens that the lady soldiers are in the middle of fighting a "fat WAC" war, too. If you join up now you'll be exposed to a new painless military way to reduce. That's if you need it, of course. If you're skinny the program'll give you curves. It's all mess hall magic.

The 3600-calories-a-day diet the Army gals had been getting up to now was the same one the boys got. Result was a very high cost of providing new, expanded uniforms, no whistles from the boys, and dress parades which look like beet trusts on the march.

The new order of the day for the uniformed ladies is 2400 calories a day and separate mess halls whenever possible.

It's either a military secret or natural feminine reticence, but the Women's Army Corps isn't saying just how much surplus poundage the average member carries. The only figure on figures releasable is an estimate that somewhere near 50 per cent of the gals are overweight.

And that brings the WAC, and Women's Air Force spokesmen especially, to a very touchy subject. They think that the maximum allowable weights in the regulations for girls who enter the service are now too high. They say that today's standard demands a slimmer girl than the old maximum weights provide.

For instance, a five-foot girl has to be at least 105 pounds and not over 133 pounds to get in. They think the maximum and most desirable weight for this height is 114 pounds. For a gal five-foot two, it's 105 minimum, 140 maximum, with the desired weight 120 pounds.

About 127 pounds is the most desirable weight for a gal five feet, four inches, WAC doctors claim, but you can be 147 at this height and still get in. Regulation maximum for a six-foot WAC is 196 pounds. However, they say, 150 pounds is what it should be.

The problem period in the weight of a WAC is during basic training. For the first time in most of their adult lives they're suddenly subjected to regular hours and regular meals. If they enter the service heavy, they usually get heavier. If they go in slim, it takes considerable will power to stay that way during breakfast, there's no cream or sugar in the coffee. To their credit, it's reported, the gals are taking this whole thing with true military stoicism. Their 3600-calorie intake in that it provides smaller portions, and more fruits and green vegetables in place of sugars and starches.

Anyone who has tried a tough 1000-calories-a-day diet will be pleased to discover that the military doctors claim it's possible to lose weight on 2400 a day. Here are some of the new diet's highlights:

You can have meat for breakfast twice a week. If you have least you shouldn't have no cakes. You can have a half-pint of milk each morning and a pat of butter. No cream or sugar in the coffee.

For lunch you can have a lot of lean meat, plenty of vegetables, a moderate dessert and a table-spoon of dressing on your salad. A small potato is permissible.

Dinner permits more lean meat, vegetables, big salad, bread, but-

Beef On The Wing

SYDNEY, Australia — (AP) — Britain's urgent need of meat which does not involve dollars is awakening the Kimberley area of western Australia with the drone of an airplane freighting beef to the coast. The Kimberley division lies in the northwest corner of Australia. It counts its human population in hundreds but has 500,000 cattle.

On the coast, almost 200 miles from the Kimberleys is Wyndham, where there are facilities for shipping beef. Normally about 40,000 cattle are driven to Wyndham each season. They must be about five years old before they can face the arduous journey and on the way they lose about 100 pounds of dressed weight.

The Australian government and the grazing interests have built a small abattoir at Glenroy, 195 miles southwest of Wyndham. Cattle from 50 miles around are slaughtered at the works, dressed and flown out.

Arson Traced to Broken Homes

NEW YORK — (AP) — Most of the arson committed in the United States in the past year is attributed by the National Board of Fire Underwriters to "irresponsible and unbalanced persons," whose chaotic home conditions lead to crimes of all types.

Broken homes, poverty, alcohol and lack of education were blamed for most incendiarism. "No recent evidence has been found of organized arson rings nor of professional firebugs," the board announced.

Anthraxosis is a lung disease found among anthracite miners, caused by inhaling the hard coal dust.

Crossroads Comment

by G. H. S.

What effect will the present war situation have on Sedalia's municipal airport status? The old one at Dresden has been sold, the new one east of Sedalia is only in the planning stage.

Time was not so much of the essence when arrangements were made in peacetime for transition of municipal airport facilities.

Jack Funk who has been operating the airport at Dresden under lease, expects to have use of the field there until March 1, 1951. Originally it was anticipated that by then the new airport east of Sedalia might have been completed, or nearly so. Will wartime building restrictions disturb and delay this contemplated procedure? If so, then Sedalia might likely go through another war period without a municipal field.

Most towns the size of Sedalia, and many smaller ones, long ago recognized the importance of having municipal airports. Sedalia finally did so.

Now by a force of unpredictable circumstances Sedalia may find next year it is without airport facilities unless the one at Dresden can be maintained after March 1 by arrangement with the new owner of the land, although it is understood that because of some title technically the actual transfer has not been consummated.

If there is no possibility of such an arrangement being made perhaps attention should be centered by city council and the airport committees on stimulating and hastening building of the new airport. This may require some fast foot work and intense effort which should have the support of all Sedalians who want to have an adequate municipal airport in operation not only in peacetime but also under the stress of wartime conditions when such a field could contribute to the war effort in the training of civilian flyers particularly under a Youth Training Program now under consideration by Congress.

In his address to the American people, the president made a statement which will meet with popular favor. Under the current war time stresses a major aim of his will be to eliminate profiteering.

With men dying for their country there should not be any profiteering at home, and this includes individuals as well as businesses.

Recollection of what went on during the last war causes one to ask what is the relative difference between big business making 100% profit, and a workman in a war plant making 100% profit. Everyone remembers the pressure put upon government to pay inflated wages clear out of proportion to the productive capacity or know how of the war plant worker. A man with a hammer and a nail became overnight a skilled carpenter drawing $75.00 to $100.00 a week, while the trained GI on the battlefield drew half as much. One risked his life, the other risked a smashed finger because he often missed hitting the nail.

If the president intends to eliminate profiteering in this war, he should go all the way.

The atomic energy commission is seeking a site for a plant to build the hydrogen bomb, a site that will "minimize its vulnerability to enemy attack." A logical place would be along the banks of Pearl river, north of Sedalia, which has a natural repulsive factor: that would restrain almost any foreign invader.

If American women insist on "wearing the pants" then they should adopt the practice of Albanian women who need 90 square feet of cloth for their trousers.

Nature abhors bigness and constantly maintains a levelling off process in the animate and inanimate world. Hence big government breeds little men.

If you are among those who have been running to the grocery stores to buy sugar, coffee and staples for hoarding don't squawk because the government is forced to revive wartime controls.

If we aren't prepared for the worst we aren't prepared at all.

The best way to divert your attention from the annoying rattle in your car is to let it go until a louder knock develops.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Oklahoma Voters Catch Up With Wickersham;

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—The U.S. armed forces have some great combat officers, but there seems to be a reluctance to use more of them in Korea. For instance, the first division of Marines, which recently embarked from California, will be commanded in Korea, not by its top man, Maj. Gen. Graves Erskine, but by his assistant commander, Brig. Gen. Edward A. Craig.

Instead of leading his division in this vitally important battle, Gen. Erskine is going to Latin America on a mission for the State Department.

Probably one of the most competent combat officers in the Army is Gen. James A. Van Fleet, now returning from Greece. In that country, Van Fleet got better acquainted with guerrilla and mountain fighting than almost any man in the U.S. Army. However, he is not being used for Korea.

Our ground force commander in Korea, Gen. Walton Walker, better known as "Johnny" Walker, had considerable combat experience in World War II, part of it under General Patton. But, according to Col. Robert S. Allen, a member of Patton's staff, Walker was a methodical slugger but not noted for his speed—one of the greatest necessities in Korea.

Bob Allen, who was given a brilliant commendation by Patton, tells—partly in his book "Lucky Forward"—how Gen. Walker's 20th Corps was ordered to take Trier, but reached the Moselle river and sat down. Walker's bridge equipment had got lost, and, instead of improvising some way to get across the river, he let his troops wait nine costly hours during which the Germans had time to rush up reinforcements.

As a result of this slowdown, SHAEF demanded that the 10th Armored Division under Walker be transferred back to SHAEF and kept in reserve.

Oklahoma Drips

Oklahoma's Senator Elmer Thomas was amused, puzzled, but pleased when he heard that the United Dry Leaders of Oklahoma had endorsed him for re-election. His amusement was doubtless due to the fact that he is well known on Capitol Hill as a two-handed drinker and connoisseur of good bourbon.

"What's it all about?" the Senator joked with Dyke Cullum, his broker, when news of Oklahoma dry support reached him in Washington. "I don't know what these people want to back me for," he said. "There must be some catch in it."

Senator Thomas was supposed to return to Oklahoma to campaign on Monday, but on that day Broker Cullum went up to New York to buy soya bean oil, lard, and shortening oil which he figures will go up in price as a result of the war news.

Meanwhile, Joyce Jones, the pretty Indian princess who is secretary of Thomas's Agriculture committee and a close friend of Dyke Cullum's, is counted on to swing the Indian vote in Oklahoma, to help bring out that vote, Thomas has cashed quite a few of his stocks and bonds lately, but Cullum seems confident that he can win all this back by taking a ride on the rising price of lard and other fats which always get scarce during the war.

NOTE—In Capitol cloakrooms, Sen. Thomas, who toured Europe (and Sweden) last summer, is sometimes called "the battle-scarred veteran of the European cocktail circuit."

Home Front Mobilization

Stuart Symington, top mobilizer for the domestic front, has picked Bob Smith, head of Pioneer Airlines in Texas, to be vice chairman of his National Security Resources Board.

In so doing, Symington has side-stepped a request from labor that a labor leader be vice chairman. This was the strategy Roosevelt followed in naming Sidney Hillman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and William Knudsen of General Motors as co-chairmen of the Office of Production Management.

In a session with labor leaders, Symington explained:

"The vice chairman of this outfit has got to be a second me. He has to represent me in pushing legislation on Capitol Hill; he has to know how I think. I've got to have a man who is close to me to fill that job."

Instead, Symington invited labor leaders to appoint one of their number either as his assistant or as head of one of his bureaus. He asked for the best man they could find, and promised that he would be an integral and important part of the resources board.

Incidentally, Symington came out of the meeting tremendously impressed at labor's backing of the government and its opposition to Communism.

"These men really know what it is to battle Communism," he remarked to an associate afterward. "Walter Reuther and Jim Carey (mainsprings of the United Auto Workers and the International Electrical Workers Union) have even been shot at by Communists. They really know what this fight is about even better than businessmen whose opposition to Communism is more theoretical. We're lucky to have men like them leading labor today."

NOTE—Some observers are wondering whether Texas Bob Smith's appointment as resources board chairman will mean that future war plants will go to Texas as was so frequently the case when Jesse Jones had charge of war plant financing.

However, Symington has told insiders this will not be the case. In the first place, few new war plants will be built; and, contrary to earlier reports, it will not be necessary to take over the Willow Run plant now operated by Henry Kaiser unless we get into a global war. Furthermore, Symington is now talking to representatives of depressed areas, such as Scranton and Wilkesbarre, Pa., where about 40,000 are unemployed, with a view to putting war industry there rather than in prosperous areas.

So They Say

I'm more relaxed than I've ever been in more years than I care to remember.

—New York Governor Thomas Dewey, after announcing he would not run for re-election.

I earnestly urge you to study this trend toward the centralization of government in this country.

—Gov. Allan Shivers, D, Texas.

I would gladly give up the proposal for national health insurance . . . if someone would come along with a better way to do the job.

—President Truman.

Col. 1:17; Eph. 2:21; Rev. 1:17—18

LET'S BE NORMAL!

We have said that Jesus is the standard Note which God has struck for us and which He bids all men tune their lives and institutions by, or be a part of chaos. One man said of himself, "The trouble with me is that I am in harmony with chaos." Everything not in harmony with Christ is in harmony with chaos. The choice is literally: Christ or chaos.

Dr. Fritz Kunkel, a noted psychologist, has a book entitled Let's Be Normal! His psychiatry and his Christianity bring him out at the same place: Christ is the Norm—to depart from Him is to be abnormal, hence frustrated. Let's be normal—let's be Christian. The scientific conclusion of this great psychologist and the intuitive conclusion of a huge laborer are the same. At the close of an address the laborer blurted out, "Well, we can't have too much of Christianity!" Is there anything—literally anything else—of which it can be said that we cannot have too much of it? Nothing.

David Seabury says: "Disease is a loss of balance and in part or in all of the organism. It may begin in the spirit and end in bodily disintegration. It may start from physical causes and react upon the psyche. But always it is a loss of balance in one's basic being. Too little or too much emotion at once reacts itself on the endocrine system. Neither inhibition nor wild release of feeling tends to health. . . . Too much or too little food, exercise, sleep, indeed too much or too little of anything . . . destroys health. Only by achieving a physical and physical equilibrium on and between each plane of life is a man's vigor maintained." (How Jesus Heals Our Minds Today, p. 310.)

We can have too much of everything except one thing—Christ, for He is equilibrium; He is the norm; He is life itself.

Was it mere chance that the early Christian writers spoke of Christ as "Life," or was it a deduction from the facts? They found He was Life with a capital "L."

O Christ, now at long last I have something I cannot have too much of. I cannot be like Thee, have too much of Thy spirit. Help me to drink deep draughts of Thy mind and way. Amen.

Music Modes

LAST week this column featured an article on Sedalia's immortal Scott Joplin and outlined a tentative plan for erecting a memorial to him. There were a few comments from interested parties. Some, apparently were just becoming aware of the deeds and merits of American Musics benefactor.

For those who asked questions pertaining to Joplin's accomplishments this column will print the first of a comprehensive biographical sketch next week.

If any endeavor is to succeed it must be properly publicized and done so thoroughly. To emphasize the real importance and significance of a Joplin Memorial this column will devote a good deal of its space to this promotion, in the future.

There is also a possibility that a series of feature articles may be dropped into the week-day papers. We now have an article written by S. Brun Campbell, noted ragtime authority. Campbell has written gobs of material on Joplin and ragtime music which has been published in nationally and internationally circulated magazines. Campbell was Joplin's first and only white piano pupil, and the original Joplin style has been instilled in him by his constant association with Joplin.

In reality the stone of interest that has now started rolling was given the first gentle push by Campbell, when he wrote dozens of letters to this column and to the Chamber of Commerce and to other individuals who expressed the desire to help toward the memorial's ultimate goal.

For years after attaining manhood Campbell toured the country playing ragtime piano and years later he married and finally settled in Venice, California, where he still resides. He now devotes all his spare time and more to the promotion of recognition for Joplin. He has done much with his writings and now along with hundreds of national figures he wants Sedalians to wake up to the magnitude of the whole conception of a memorial. It is now becoming apparent that Sedalia's music minded and even the music-minded are doing just that. For many it would be the renaissance of Sedalia's light music idiom. It should be comparable to that or perhaps surpass such a transition with undreamed of bounds of startling growth.

Again, we beg to remind you that starting next Sunday this column will start a sketch of the life of Scott Joplin, the unsurpassed ruler of ragtime music and a by-product of the Queen City of the Prairies.

"Dis here column has been oft tempted to give a run down on new recordings, but for some reason there has always been something coming up to prevent it. There have been some new sides that have slipped out in the past few weeks that are worth mentioning. There are others however that we must warn you of. Of course, these opinions are strictly of those of Modes and they do not necessarily constitute opinions of any associated departments.

First, Modes would like to call to your attention a Bartok album, (RCA Victor) Concerto for Violin and Orchestra. The violinist is Yehudi Menuhin and the orchestra is the Dallas Symphony with Antal Dorati conducting. The Dallas Symphony has been noted for its efforts with the featuring of the works of the world's contemporary composers and the recording of the Concerto pays a just tribute to Hungary's greatest composer. Bela Bartok incidentally died September 26, 1945. For the music lover with a taste for flawless violin work and a yen for warm, rich harmonies and melodious this album is a treasure.

There is enough classic cultured material in the aforementioned album to balance the following records of a lighter vein.

The female Billy Eckstine, Sarah Vaughan has again cooed out two fine sides for MGM. On the A side of the platter we can hear Gershwin's "The Man I Love" and on the flip "Once In A While" is also soothing. With a gal like Sarah lacking around, how do women like Kay Armen and Jane Pinkens ever get the nerve to open their mouths. Sarah, we believe has more quality and more emotion in her voice that the combined efforts of a dozen Armens and Pinkens. The same holds true with deep and mellow voiced Billy Eckstine as compared to Vaughan, Monroe or Jack Smith. Another thing that hurts is the fact that the less talented are sitting the air waves once or twice a week while their artistic superiors are confined to Recordings and actual personal appearances. This is of course with the exception of a few (too few) guest artist spots.

Space is nearly filled and yet only one album and the two sides of one record have been discussed. We must get a word in for George Shearing and his modern sounding quintet. The sum total of comments on Shearing would amount to this—if it's Shearing it's the best and you should have it. The new sides with parts I and II, "In a Chinese Garden" are a fine example of how the man and his

LITTLE DOC

DUSTY RHODES eyed Brownie solemnly. "You say you're a horse thief, but you ain't. Horse thieves are all bad, and you ain't. Brownie's eyes were on the floor and he didn't reply. Little Doc answered for him: 'He'll take the job, Dusty.'"

"I won't be hikin' a horse thief when I put you on, Brownie," said Dusty. "Those were my horses that Long Andy took and your job is to take them back to the Rockin' R horse camp on Beaver Creek. There's a good cabin there and a bunch of horses to look after. In fact, I've been lookin' for a married man to hold down that horse camp."

Dusty shoved his hand in his pocket and pulled out a fistful of crumpled bank notes.

"Here. Send for your wife and baby to come to Wolf Point. She can get what she needs to set up housekeepin' at the Mercantile and charge it to the Rockin' R. I can square things with you later. She'll want to fix the place up."

"There, now, Brownie," Dusty consoled. "Don't thank me. Little Doc's the man to thank. Now hightail it and send a telegram to that wife of yours."

After Brownie left, Dusty held out some bills to Little Doc. "Here's what I owe you, Doc."

"Good gosh, Dusty! It's an awful shock to have a patient pay me in cash!" Little Doc helped Dusty into his clean shirt and shoved him out of the door.

TWO small boys came into the waiting room after Dusty left. One of them held a small, black and white spotted puppy of indubitable pedigree in his hand. The other youth held out a few pennies.

As well as you can see there's no room at the bottom of this column for the things we don't like and wouldn't have on a bet. It's probably just as well though cause some of them are probably on this thing called—"A Hit"—Parade. P. S. We like most of them, however.

Q's and A's

Q—What event is generally considered to mark the beginning of the French Revolution?

A—The seizing of the Bastille by the people of Paris.

Q—How many U. S. Naval Academy appointments are allowed to each congressman?

A—The number has been reduced from five to four each.

Q—What is said to have saved the life of Theodore Roosevelt when he was shot in Milwaukee?

A—The spectacle case he carried in his left breast pocket.

Q—Who was the founder of Father's Day?

A—Father's Day was founded in 1910 in Spokane, Washington, by Mrs. John Bruce Dodd. Her own father was the inspiration of her plan.

Q—Does Mono Lake in California have an outlet?

A—This beautiful body of water has no outlet and is so densely alkaline that it contains no fish.

"Spotty got his foot caught in a gopher trap, Doc," said the youth holding the dog.

"We're kinda partners in Spotty," the second boy said. He held the pennies closer to Doc could count them. "Here's seven cents. If that ain't enough, we'll work out the rest of it. We're strong for our age, Doc."

Doc wiped off a grin and lifted the pup from the boy's arms to his table. He washed the bloody paw and examined it.

"No bones broken," he said in his best bedside manner. "I'll swab off the paw, but there's no use putting on a bandage. He'd only chew it off and swallow it. And besides, you'll need the money for soda pop, and I've got two bits that'll only go through the hole in my pocket." He gave the boys the quarter.

The two boys beamed and left with the puppy.

Later, Dusty and Kit came over to take Doc out to supper at the Chinaman's. Kit spread a big catalog from a surgeon's supply company on the table.

"Pick out what you need, Doc," said Dusty. "Shoot the works. Later on you and Kit can work out the plans she has for turnin' the hotel her father left her into a hospital. You can move your office over there when it's finished."

AFTER supper they went to Kit's house and talked until long after midnight. Kit insisted on staying on her job to help Little Doc until he found a nurse to take over but Kit and Dusty planned their wedding right after the calf roundup.

That evening Dusty left to go back to his roundup and Little Doc walked back to his office alone. Old Dad and Shep woke up and bade him goodnight.

But after he turned in, as tired as he was, sleep would not come for Little Doc. Back East seemed a long, long way off and half forgotten. Kit and her understanding had helped him across the roughest stretch of the road and he, in turn, had been her friend when she was in need of one. Thinking of Kit and Dusty married and happy, brought a smile into his heavy lidded eyes.

The Westbound went through Wolf Point without stopping. The bell clanged and the locomotive whistle shattered the silence of the summer night. The porter George and the same conductor were on the train and they had given the engine crew orders to clang the bell and blow the whistle at Wolf Point, to let Little Doc know they remembered him.

The last sounds of the locomotive whistle wailed into the dying echoes and the wolf howl shamed picked it up, and then there was only the silence of the night.

Little Doc's black leather bag was now shabby and leather scuffed, and the memory of the girl who had given it to him, was gone, leaving no heartache or bitterness.

Here at Wolf Point, John Sand, M. D., had come into his own. He was a cow country doctor who now belonged in the West. He knew that he would always stay here. His patients were building him a hospital and he had the friendship of the whole cow country. His heart was at peace and he had high hopes. When he looked out the window the stars came down low and within reach for Little Doc.

Too Bad Women Can't Spot Husband's Faults Earlier

Women aren't any too bright, about figuring out before marriage what men are good husbands material and which are not.

But it's mighty easy for any woman to spot a "poor husband" once some woman has made the mistake of marrying him.

Barbs

BY HAL COCHRAN

Another argument for slow eating is that what you can afford to chew these days certainly is worth chewing well.

When you're out picking blackberries, the one that stings you is a bumbebebe!

There'll soon be little room left in the fruit cellars of smart people. They'll be jammed—and jellied and preserved.

I'll be the early chestnut, not the bird, that gets the worm this fall.

Anyone looking for an inexpensive apartment these days is in a suite predicament.

A Chicagoan was caught holding up people entering a night club. You'd hardly expect him to wait until they came out.

These are all types of "poor husbands" any woman can identify after even a brief acquaintance.

The "know it all" who doesn't give his wife credit for having sense enough to come in out of the rain. He is always correcting his wife's statements, acting superior toward her ideas, and in general trying to make himself look smart at her expense.

The "grouch" who has to be babied and soft-soaped continually if he is to be kept even half-way agreeable. Even then his wife never knows when she will unintentionally start him off on a tantrum.

Pity the Wife of a Wolf

The "gentlemanly wolf" who is oh-so-charming to every woman he meets, but the woman he marries and ignores. Even when they are playing up to him, other women feel nothing but pity for his wife.

The "Big I" who never lets his wife share the spotlight even for a moment. He always says, "my house," "my car," "my children"—and is always the family's star performer.

The "irresponsible husband" whose wife has to pinch pennies while he makes big gestures and big plans that never materialize.

All these types are easy to spot as poor husband material AFTER they are married.

10,000 Alcoholics Converging New King-size Bazooka On Cleveland---Cold Sober--- For AA's 15th Anniversary

By NEA Service
CLEVELAND — (NEA — From 10,000 to 15,000 incurable alcoholics will converge here July 28-30.
But no extra police and no drunken riots are anticipated because all these visitors will be cold sober—men and women assembled from all the states, Canadian provinces and foreign lands—celebrating the 15th anniversary of the founding of Alcoholics Anonymous.

The organization that now numbers well over 100,000 members was born in Akron, O., in the summer of 1935. A New York securities salesman, whose idea it was to maintain his own sobriety by helping other alcoholics, met an Akron doctor who had become a hopeless drunk.

These two men, recognizing the fact that they were "incurable drunks" as long as they drank, evolved the principle of AA which has brought thousands of other alcoholics back from the gutters, from physical, moral and mental bankruptcy to respectability.

In simplest terms, the code of AA is: "I am a drunk, I want to quit drinking, I will not drink today, I will ask a Power greater than myself to help me, I will help others to accomplish the same result."

At this first international conference the studies of AA into industry, education and social welfare will be reviewed and more absorbed rapidly into industry steps planned. The idea has been where such firms as E. I. duPont de Nemours, Thompson Products, Eastman Kodak, Consolidated Edison and others have embraced it.

Its spread abroad will be related by one of the founding fathers who has just returned from visiting AA groups in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, France, England, Ireland—even in Scotland, home of Scotch whisky. Medically, the simple therapy of AA has received wide endorsement by physicians, many of whom now add "Join AA" to their prescriptions. Groups have been formed in prisons, a phase on which the visitors will be addressed by Warden Clinton Duffy of San Quentin. Headquarters reports many sheriffs and police officials registering as observers.

Growth of AA, on lines of utmost simplicity, has been astounding. There are no solicitations, no dues, no paid officers or directors, no membership campaigns, no controversies or forced reforms. The goal is self support by contributions of members who pay their own way in every phase of activity. Many legacies and offers of gifts from outside have been turned down.

Members maintain small printed bulletins in their communities and support the Grapevine, monthly published in New York, where the text "Alcoholics Anonymous" also is printed. Conference expenses are met by $1.50 individual registration fees.

How does AA work? First of all an alcoholic whose life has become unmanageable must have the sincere desire to quit drinking. A member of AA calls on him and becomes his sponsor. Then comes hospitalization for at least five days during which he receives medication.

When he is "out of the fog," members call on him with counsel, friendly help, and the man learns that his story is not much different from theirs.

Released from the hospital, the man identifies himself with a group of his fellows meeting weekly, but he is not limited to one group. In a typical city such as Cleveland, he can go to a meeting every night in the week, choosing any one of a dozen night group meetings.

There are 12 steps toward rehabilitation. After admitting he is an alcoholic, acknowledging a Supreme Power and making amends for wrongs to others, he is committed to frequent moral inventory and meditation and the desire to carry to others the method that helped him.

One 14-year member who went from a Wall Street millionaire to panhandling nickels on the Bowery, was asked to comment on a new pituitary gland treatment of alcoholism through hormones and adrenal injections. Recent successes with this chemical procedure have been noted in New York City.

"It sounds wonderful," said the veteran. "But we've got something better than a physical panacea. Our treatment goes deeper. AA is a way of life that reaches not only the mind and body but the whole spiritual being."

So Rabbits Don't Like Carrots?

CLEVELAND, O.—(AP)—It's a fallacy that rabbits have a yen for carrots, say research scientists after tests with a new rabbit repellent on wild cottontails—the "eatings" of all rabbits.

Brier Rabbit showed so little interest in carrots that H. F. Goodrich Chemical Co. researchers discontinued using the food. Far more popular, they said, were beans, lettuce, corn, tulips, daffodils and hyacinths.

In tests at the University of Florida Agricultural Experiment station at Gainesville, the new repellent greatly reduced the amount of damages in vegetable and flower gardens. Cottontails that nibbled at and damaged 80 to 100 per cent of the lettuce plants in untreated patches, excused clear of lettuce that had been sprayed or dusted, the biologists said.

Arkansas and California ligulite is a good source of the mountain wax used in industry, according to the U. S. Bureau of Mines.

Some families of chickens are low in hatchability of eggs.

Change In Five Gen. Nessin, High in Russian Army, Commands Reds In Korean War; Conflict Won't Delay Tito Move

By Hal Boyle
TOKYO (AP)—Five years have wrought a magical change in "MacArthurville"—which, is just one nickname for Charlie Hirohito's old home town.

The industrious Japanese have done much more to reconstruct their capital than the Germans have with Berlin.

Of course, it is much easier to rebuild a wooden city than one made of stone, brick and steel. But it is also hard to escape the conclusion that the Japanese have put more heart and muscle into the task than have the Germans.

One reason probably is that they are less fearful of the future. Another reason probably is that the Japanese were less overwhelmed by the disaster of defeat. They take a stolid, stolid pride in the belief they are still the first nation of the Orient.

Whatever the reason, Tokyo wears a bright new face today. In great areas gutted by fire bombs in 1945 you now have to look hard to find the scars of war. The physical progress is almost unbelievable to one who saw Tokyo ruined and prostrate just five short years ago.

It is incredibly alive and booming. It is a beehive, busy by day and a garden of exotic neon color at night. The prewar replacement of old Japanese customs by Western ways has been dramatically speeded up.

People Better Fed
Five years ago the streets were filthy and the people hungry and in rags. Today the debris has all been removed. The people look healthy and better fed. Vehicles swarm everywhere—bicycles, American cars and a growing number of shiny new Japanese made automobiles—and the parking problem is as bad as it is in almost any American city. In four days here I have seen only one horse drawn wagon and three man-pulled rickshaws.

Department stores and the canvas covered open air stalls along the famous Ginza are stocked with every kind of merchandise. And there must be plenty of yen around as they are packed with shoppers. American style products are in particular demand.

"You ought to see the way Japanese women are snapping up falsies," said one American woman. "They all seem to want to wear them—and goodness knows most of them need to."

But for some reason she appeared annoyed at the eagerness with which Japanese femininity is embracing this facet of American culture. Just why I don't know.

I am no judge as to the general quality of Japanese goods but it appears to be pretty good. At least a $5 Mickey Mouse watch I bought here is still running after four days—and it hasn't lost more than a couple of minutes a day.

Against this I must put the performance of a new Swiss portable typewriter I brought here from New York. It broke down before I could finish writing "now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of Korea." But Japanese repairmen fixed it in less than 10 minutes.

I don't suppose this proves anything at all—except maybe that I am too ignorant to fix my own typewriter. But I don't think anyone who saw Tokyo in 1945 and then came back and saw it as it is today could ever make the mistake of underestimating the Japanese people. They bounce.

That Russian Bear?

VIENNA (AP)—A new kind of refugee fled to Austria from Yugoslavia and was killed with one shot by an Austrian forestry official.

The refugee was nearly seven feet tall and weighed 396 pounds. He is now being stuffed and mounted.

Officials said it was the first bear shot in Austria in 45 years.

ACROSS THE EASTERN HEMISPHERE, Communist lightning, generated in Moscow, touched off war fires now burning in Korea. But Cominform circles say Yugoslavia still is Moscow's No. 1 target; a Soviet lightning stroke there is expected within weeks.

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS (NEA)—A high ranking Soviet Army officer named Major General F. A. Nessin is the actual commander-in-chief of the Communist forces now fighting in Korea, according to well-informed Cominform circles in Paris.

General Nessin has long been known in Communist international ranks. Before assuming command in Korea he was chief of the Cominform's widespread network of secret shock troops and commando detachments in Western Europe. Although primarily a "political" general, he is known to be one of Moscow's foremost experts in guerrilla warfare.

General Nessin is at present reported to be in Northern Korea, where he heads a staff of 200 Red Army officers and military experts of the Cominform.

The choice of this "political" general as the man to fire the first shot in what might become the prelude to World War III is regarded in Cominform circles as a distinct victory for the pro-war group in the Soviet Politburo.

This group, headed by G. M. Malenkov, Marshal N. A. Bulganin, and M. A. Suslov, believes that time is not on Russia's side—that Russia must strike while the Western Allies are still unprepared. It advocates the immediate "liquidation of the Tito incident" and the seizure of Berlin by the force of arms.

Because of the initial reverses suffered by U. S. troops in Korea,

Gasparian died under mysterious circumstances.

Despite the intensity of the Korean conflict, the consensus here is that Marshal Tito remains Stalin's No. 1 target. A combined satellite attack on Yugoslavia is believed to be only weeks away. The attack is even likely to take place simultaneously with any consent by Moscow to mediate the Korean conflict.

Bulgarian, Hungarian, Rumanian and Albanian troops are gathering on Yugoslavia's borders. Both Bulgaria and Albania recently charged Yugoslavia with "acts of aggression."

At the same time, the Cominform is stepping up its war of nerves against Tito. In nightly broadcasts in dozens of languages the Cominform's entire radio network is now accusing Yugoslavia of having become an American military base for an attack against Russia.

I am also reliably informed that French and Italian Communist commando detachments have just been issued orders to establish insurrectionary centers in Southern France and Northern Italy. A massing of Communist military youth organizations has been ordered by the Cominform in these areas.

Cominform chief Malenkov's star has lately risen higher in the Politburo ranks.

A protégé of Malenkov, General Nessin received Red Army rank immediately following the death of A. N. Zhukov. Prior to his recent death at the age of 50, Zhukov, who headed the Cominform when it broke with Marshal Tito, was widely regarded as Stalin's successor. He was a bitter rival of Malenkov.

Accused of weeding out pro-Zhdanov officers in the Red Army, Nessin became involved in a drawn-out conflict with Gen. D. F. Gasparian, then assistant chief of the Soviet General Staff. But in October, 1949, General

Gasparian died under mysterious circumstances.

Ironically enough, the concentration in Southern France is scheduled for the end of August disguised as a youth "Peace Festival" the "festival" is being arranged by the Communist Federation of Democratic Youth.

Meanwhile, there are persistent rumors here and elsewhere in France that the Communists have decided to stage a coup d'etat. This will, ostensibly be preceded by a vigorous demand by the French Party for the establishment of a "Government of Democratic Union" in which its two chief lieutenants, Jacques Duclos and Andre Marty, will head the ministries of the Interior and War.

The French Communist Party denies these rumors. It claims that they are being deliberately spread by the newly-formed coalition government in order to find a pretext for outlawing the party.

Traffic Expert Thumbs His Way

VANCOUVER — (AP) — A Dutch prosecutor—a specialist in traffic cases, Hans Brocius—is hitchhiking his way around the continent studying North American traffic systems. He started his tour in New York City. Because of foreign exchange regulations, he could get only $150 for the trip and he has to make it last more than three months. Hans' hitch-hiking formula is simple. If he wants to get to Hollywood, say, he chalks on cardboard "Holland to Hollywood." With a Dutch flag under the sign he parks by the highway to wait—usually not long.

Warning on Hoarding And Scarce Buying is Given

NEW YORK, July 22—(AP)—"cens"—but that supplies are adequate. There's little danger of serious shortage. The National Association of Electrical Distributors warned retail dealers against overstocking television sets and appliances. Benjamin Gross, vice-president, said that overstocking could only lead to a severe imbalance in the industry and an artificial increase in prices. Furthermore, he declared, the retailers might get stuck with excess supplies and have to stage distress sales later. A prediction that there would be plenty of fabrics for the men's clothing trade came from Sol R. Feldman, vice-president for Joseph H. Cohen and Sons, big men's clothing manufacturer. Other industry officials gave flat assurances that cotton textiles also are in ample supply with no shortages in sight. The vast sand area of the Sahara desert probably was created by wind erosion of dry soil, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica. ## Reports Given Van Natta Club

O. Thornburn s
The Guest Speaker
Of Multi-Workers

O. Thornburn, conservation field agent, was the guest speaker at the Van Natta Multi-workers 4-H Club which met Monday night, July 17, at the school house.

There were 13 members, the parents and leaders and four guests present.

George A. Buchholz presided over the business meeting, which included roll call, response being: "A famous person I would like to be like."

Discussions were held on local achievement day and dairy and livestock tour and the camp arrangement for July 21-24.

Larry Stark reported on the dairy project meeting which was held at the home of Harry and Charles Long on Friday, June 23. There were seven members present to observe judging methods presented by Bryan Phifer. Also present were Wayne Stark, project leader, and Mrs. Sam Long, community leader. The boys judged Jersey cows. George A. Buchholz reported on the dairy judging meeting held at the home of Ernest Schlobohm on July 7, with both the Oak Grove and Van Natta boys present. Also present were Miss Elizabeth Kersten, from Germany and Mr. Phifer. The boys judged on Guernsey cows. Afterward they were served ice cream and angel food cake.

Told of Garden Tour

Gordon Ray Fiedler reported on the garden tour and judging at the conclusion of the tour the seven garden members met at the home of their leader, Mrs. George Buchholz, where they judged cabbage and green beans.

Though the Food Preservation project girls are few in number, they have made great progress. The group consists of three girls, Ann Harding, Bonnie Gorrell and Virginia Landes and their leader, Mrs. George H. Gorrell. Mrs. Gorrell called the first meeting on January 18, and they have had seven meetings. On the days they canned each girl participated in judging the finished project. Bonnie Gorrell and Ann Harding gave a demonstration before the entire club on preparing jars for canning.

The girls have completed their project of Clothing II and IV for this year.

Two project meetings were announced. Mrs. Wesley Harding has called a meeting in Native Craft at her home on July 31 and George Gorrell called a meeting in tractor maintenance at his home on July 20.

Local achievement day will be August 15 at the school house. Dairy activities will be in the form of a tour, the date to be announced later.

The fire prevention and control campaign was reported on and helpful suggestions given by each member.

Following the business meeting Mr. Thornburn was introduced and spoke on "Balancing Nature and Soil Conservation." He then showed three moving pictures, one on wild flowers, one on snakes, poisonous and non-poisonous, and one on fish.

During the social hour refreshments of cake and punch were served.

The Van Natta ball team have been winning victories in recent games. On July 9 they won their first game of the season when they played Beaman-Avator at Beaman, with a score of 13 to 4, with Larry Turner pitching for Van Natta and Jackie Birdsong pitching for Beaman. On Sunday, July 16, the Van Natta ball team won over Marilla with a score of 5 to 3, Turner pitching for Van Natta and McCune for Marilla.

Crime Syndicates Face Tough Foe in New Senate Group

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The big gambling and vice syndicates which have developed crime in the U. S. into a tightly controlled, multi-million dollar business face a brand new foe in the special Senate committee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D. Tenn.).

Kefauver's group has a weapon the syndicate big wigs never have faced before. It's the authority to weld into one anti-crime task force all of the law enforcing and regulatory agencies of the U. S. government.

Up until now the shocking success of syndicate activities has resulted from the exploitation of a legal no-man's land. Operating across state lines, state officials have found themselves powerless to nail the top syndicate men in any clear-up drives. Local officials have been even more frustrated.

Appeals to federal agencies for help have been just as fruitless. The FBI, for instance, has no authority to investigate gambling.

The only thing Treasury agents can do about slot machines is collect a tax on them.

The Kefauver committee, however, has the unique authority to Rudolph Halley—veteran of the famed Truman war investigating committee—the committee is beginning to make full use of Uncle Sam's law enforcers. In addition to its own staff of about 10 expert investigators, the committee will have use of FBI agents, Secret Service men, postal inspectors, narcotics agents, Bureau of Internal Revenue agents and even the intelligence officers of the armed services.

The experts who have been following the growth of the syndicates have said all along that only this way of law enforcement talent, coordinated into a single effort, would be powerful enough to lay bare the facts on the syndicates' operations. The protection, through political corruption, which the syndicates have bought have made them impregnable.

Halley reveals that his group will not operate from any master plan or master timetable. During the first week of operation he received hundreds of tips, hunches and offers of information on various criminal activities around the country. He will begin investigating what looks like the hottest leads first, where ever they happen to point.

Investigations in the various cities will be quiet, fast and sure. All sources, newspaper reporters, local police, informers, public officials and private citizens who have information will be given an attentive ear. His men will use the element of surprise whenever possible.

Members of the committee themselves might hold open hearings for gambling operations. The tellings in various cities. And that most powerful of all congressional probe weapons, the subpoena, will be used to bring any persons involved straight to Washington for hearings.

Two U. S. agencies have already taken big steps to aid Kefauver's group. The Federal Communications Commission has requested all telephone companies to keep a permanent record of the details of all long distance calls. This is aimed at exposing those who use the long distance lines for gambling operations. The telephone is a very necessary instru-

Gen. Dean Wounded

It was at Taejon, that Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, divisional commander last seen personally directing a bazooka tank-killing squad during withdrawal operations Thursday. He was wounded in the action. How seriously was not known.

Stragglers Cut Off

More than 200 stragglers cut off during fierce house-to-house fighting in Taejon have made their way back to American lines since the city fell. Most of them belonged to the 34th infantry regiment of the 24th division. Many were wounded and all were near exhaustion. Some had lost even their shoes and clothing in the retreat.

A regimental commander who led his men out of flaming Taejon told Associated Press Correspondent O. H. P. King that the North Koreans must have lost 3,000 men killed in the assault on Taejon.

"They had a total disregard for life," the commander said, "so men kept coming at us that eventually we were overwhelmed. But I am sure they are worse off in victory than we are in defeat."

General MacArthur noted that lack of information on the sixth North Korean division "gives credence" to indications the division is being used as replacements for the first and other North Korean divisions.

Persian Cat At The Hunt Home Sixteen

It isn't anything unusual to celebrate a sixteenth birthday anniversary but it is for Taddy, who was 16 years old Saturday. Being 16 usually means youth but for Taddy it is old age, for Taddy is a gray and white Persian cat belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Heber U. Hunt, 916 South Harrison avenue.

Robert Hunt, who is now married and has a little boy of his own, was still a little boy when Taddy came to live in the Hunt home. "Bob" had had several dogs and all had met the same fate beneath the wheels of cars, so Mrs. Hunt suggested that this time they get a little kitten.

Taddy was one of a litter of five kittens, and only one other of the litter, that belonging to Mrs. Paul Grisby, is still living. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt paid the sum of $3.00 for him and he grew into a beautiful big cat. He just about has the run of the house, does Taddy, and through the sixteen years he has given the Hunt family a lot of laughs with his antics.

No Taddy didn't have a birthday party—he didn't have a cake, but he had something he thought was a lot better—a nice juicy steak.

Big Burden On U. S. If War Comes

ground forces for defense are now concentrated in the occupation forces of Germany.

There is one American infantry division and the rough equivalent of an American armored division in the constabulary brigades.

There are two French divisions, neither too well equipped and each short of reserves.

There are about 100,000 British, Norwegian, and Danish soldiers broken up into brigades and mixed units, few of which are on an immediate war footing.

Handful Of Planes

These are backed by a handful of ground support planes. Of these, only the American and British ones are relatively modern.

In official statements American and other military men comment on the fine condition of their troops and their fighting ability. But privately they say, no matter how well they fight, a sudden big Soviet attack probably would wipe out most of these forces in the first week of fighting. Some say the forces would be decimated in 48 hours.

The fighting in Korea has proved it takes ground troops in great numbers to halt or slow down a land attack, despite new weapons which, in the main, exist on drawing boards.

The Russians have kept a minimum of 22 divisions in Eastern Germany, backed up by large reserves in Poland and other satellite states. There is no force in the West that comes close to matching this number of troops.

Even nearby Britain could not put troops on the continent soon enough to fight anything but a fast delaying action under these conditions.

Since the Germans are forbidden to arm, the main defense of the continent rests on France, as the largest continental power.

But the major portion of the French army is tied up in fighting in Indo-China, thousands of miles away.

Loaded Gun Surprised Them Of Their Strength

OMAHA, Neb., July 22—(AP)—Two sound Omaha packing plant employees had some new-found respect today for their own strength.

At the insistence of two snarling bandits, the two men pushed a big office safe containing $4,971 through two doors to a loading dock this morning. Then, with guns poking them in the ribs, the two men boosted the safe onto a truck.

When the safe, weighing nearly a ton, was found later, six burly men tried to move it. It didn't budge.

The gunmen hailed the safe away in a company-owned truck but abandoned it, unopened, when the truck became mired in mud. The employees coerced into the moving job were Lloyd E. Christensen and James Gray, both of Omaha. Christensen weighs 190 pounds, Gray 160.

Urged "Saneness in Buying" Whiskies

NEW YORK, July 21—(AP)—The "apparent hysterical buying" of whiskey has led some distillers to allocate orders, several leading firms reported today.

The rush in orders was all for bonded bourbons and straight whiskies, the distillers said.

Among the leading companies who are either allocating orders or planning to are Brown-Forman, Park & Tilford, Schenley, Continental, Kinsey and W. A. Haller Co.

Only Seagram distillers of those who could be contacted reported it was "No need for any rationing."

Brown-Forman Distillers Corp. urged "saneness in buying" in announcing it was reserving the right to allocate orders of top brands. It said there was "apparent hysterical buying" of whiskey.

Apparent Lag Of Interest In State Primary

Chief Attention To Allison And Hennings Race

JEFFERSON CITY, July 22—(AP)—Missouri's strange 1950 primary campaign is limping to a close. And nobody seems to care very much.

It's like a cross country runner staggering across the finish line after the crowd has gone home.

The primary is Tuesday, August 1, little more than a week away. But how many times have you heard the election mentioned in the last few days?

Even President Truman's intervention in the Democratic race for the United States senatorial nomination apparently has roused little interest outside the ranks of the professional politicians.

The President wants to beat Republican Senator Forrest C. Donnell of Webster Groves, who has been like a hot shirt to the administration from the start.

Allison has campaigned up and down the state. So has his only opponent with previous political experience, former Congressman Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., of St. Louis.

Endorse Truman Stand. Both have endorsed the President's stand in the Korean war and his decision to send American troops into the fight.

Both have assailed crime and have promised to have no truck with any criminal elements seeking a foothold in government—a red hot issue in Missouri since the April 6 gang slaying of Charles Brannigan, Kansas City Democratic leader.

Allison has the support of James M. Pendergast in Kansas City. Pendergast—head of the Democratic faction which started the President in politics—says Jackson county will give Allison a 32,000 vote margin.

Hennings has been openly critical of the President's intervention and of what he called "Pendergastism." His supporters look to St. Louis for heavy support.

Both sides claim victory by about 75,000 votes.

If you balance off the claims and give Hennings the edge in St. Louis and Allison the edge in Kansas City, it would throw the decision into outside Missouri. Both sides declare they will win there.

One factor that might influence the St. Louis voting is a new city charter, up for approval or rejection at the primary. The charter would broaden the city's home rule powers and has been endorsed by both Republican and Democratic leaders.

Gov. Forrest Smith thinks the charter issue might double the size of the St. Louis vote, raising it from perhaps 40,000 to around 80,000.

In the last off-year primary, in 1946, the city produced only 32,500 Democratic votes and 56,100 Republican votes. The 1948 governorship race drew 91,500 Democratic primary votes in St. Louis and 79,600 in the GOP contest.

Few Hot Local Contests. For the state as a whole, the lack of hot local contests is credited as the main reason for public apathy. It's a political axiom that you don't get the public stirred up unless there are a lot of local candidates out ringing doorbells and raising local issues.

This time, few counties have any big local fights.

And overshadowing everything, of course, is the Korean war. It would take a mighty big political explosion, right now, to drown out the sound of those far off guns.

Besides the senatorial contest, the only other statewide race is for state auditor.

On the Democratic side, State

Club Discusses Constitution

The Pleasant Valley R. U. A. met June 30 at the South Abell Community Hall with the president, Josephine Wadleigh, presiding.

Twelve members and one visitor answered the roll call.

The proposed constitution was read and discussed and after some revisions the constitution was adopted.

An announcement of the R. U. A. Camp on August 5-6 at Monticourt was made by the president.

The meeting was followed by a social hour, at which time games were played and refreshments served.

St. Louis Bookmaker May Give up Business

ST. LOUIS, July 21—(AP)—The Globe-Democrat said tonight it has learned that James J. Carroll, unlikely to rise this year more than 3 or 4 percent above the July level. The year's retail average should be about the same as that of 1949.

All this comes from the bureau of agricultural economics. It is the agency that keeps books on the nation's supplies of food and farm products.

In a special food report, the bureau sought to put the clincher on what President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Brannan have been trying to get across: Price boosts and hoarding are uncalled for.

Supplies Ample. The agency assured the public that food supplies are expected to stay at the high level of the past two years.

Even if the Korean situation increases military buying of food in coming months, civilian supplies "would not be noticeably affected," the report asserted. The government has a lot of food stocks the military could use.

Hence, speculated buying and price increases that have developed since fighting started in Korea are not warranted, the bureau observed.

The main effect: The Korean situation is likely to have on the 1950 food situation, the agency said, is strengthening of consumer demand for food as employment and incomes respond to the accelerated defense program.

The bureau's calm look at the food price future contrasted with some sharp advances even before the Korean campaign began.

The bureau of labor statistics said today that between May 15 and June 15, food costs leaped 2.1 per cent. Since the fighting started, some prices have shot higher.

Retail prices in general advanced 9 of one percent between May and June, the broadest increase in two years.

It forecast somewhat lower prices for some foods, particularly meats during the fall and winter.

Prices Upward. By Sam Dawson. NEW YORK, July 22—(AP)—Prices continued upward this week. The pace was slower than in the first frightened days after the Reds struck Korea. But the cost of living climbed steadily higher.

The creeping advance widened out through the list of foods, clothing and some durable goods. Only a handful of the commodities that are the raw materials for meals, gadgets, clothes and shelter were lower than a week ago. Only a few still stayed where they were when war started four weeks ago.

Consumers still crowded into stores to stock up on goods they remembered as scarce in the last war. Department store sales in the week of July 15 soared 24 per cent above the like period in 1949. The greatest gain was 39 per cent in Dallas.

Here are a few of the things on which prices climbed this week: Gasoline, tires, worsted wool linings, cotton cloth, knitting yarn.

And here are some of the foods that are higher than a week ago: Sugar, coffee, cocoa, flour, lard and eggs. And in many retail stores around the country meat prices rose, although wholesale prices mostly were below a week ago.

Raw materials from which are made the finished goods you will buy later on also advanced. Here are some: Hides, rubber, steel scrap, lumber, burlap, cotton, and wool.

The price hikes are even more startling when compared with what commodities were selling for June 23, the weekend before the war broke. Here are a few of the hikes at wholesale in a month: Tin up 15 cents to 9 1/2 cents a pound; wheat up 18 1/2 cents a bushel to $2.32; rubber up 1 1/2 cents a pound to 40 1/2 cents; eggs up eight cents a dozen to 45 1/2 cents; lard up 4 1/2 cents a pound to 14 cents; hogs up $4 a hundredweight to $24.50; cotton up 4 1/2 cents a pound to 32.82 cents, and unfinished cotton cloth up 2 1/2 cents a yard to 18 cents.

Coffee has gone up around 10 cents a pound at the retail stores, and the wholesale price of the green bean has advanced 6 1/2 cents to 55 cents a pound. The cocoa bean has risen 6 1/2 cents to 36 1/2 cents a pound.

Report States Food To Still Be Plentiful

Expected To Stay At High Level Diet In U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 22—(AP)—There is plenty of food, the government said today, and the Korean crisis won't even "noticeably affect" supplies for the American public.

An official report also said: 1. The nation will go right on eating at its high level diet.

2. In fact many may buy even more food as employment and earnings rise under impact of a stepped-up defense program.

Coffee has gone up around 10 cents a pound at the retail stores, and the wholesale price of the green bean has advanced 6 1/2 cents to 55 cents a pound. The cocoa bean has risen 6 1/2 cents to 36 1/2 cents a pound.

And here are some of the foods that are higher than a week ago: Sugar, coffee, cocoa, flour, lard and eggs. And in many retail stores around the country meat prices rose, although wholesale prices mostly were below a week ago.

Mrs. Ann Poling, 609 Delaware St., Indianapolis, Indiana, who was suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B-1, B-2, Iron and Niacin, smiles as she pours herself another cup of coffee. Mrs. Poling says life lately is like it used to be years ago. "That is, of course, since I've been taking HADACOL." She can't get over what a difference HADACOL has made in her outlook on life.

Mrs. Poling says, "Three months ago a good friend of mine told me about HADACOL—she knew how much stomach distress I have had. Any type of food that was fried or that had acid in it just couldn't eat it. It affected my sleep, too. In fact, I couldn't have been in a worse condition. When I ate what I wanted to I felt miserable and when I didn't eat these things I didn't have a proper diet and still felt bad. Then, when I started taking HADACOL, I felt better immediately. I've got a bottle in the house now—and will continue to keep HADACOL from now on. I have told many folks about HADACOL—and they all thank me for telling them about HADACOL. They all have gotten wonderful results from HADACOL like I have. Now I eat anything I want and get a good night's sleep. I can't praise HADACOL enough."

HADACOL CAN Help You Too!

... as it has helped thousands of others whose systems lacked Vitamins B-1, B-2, Iron and Niacin. Yes, even hundreds of doctors have recommended HADACOL to their patients. The HADACOL formula is so effective for stomach distress, nervousness, insomnia, constipation, aches and pains of neuritis and a general run-down condition caused by such deficiencies.

Make Up Your Mind to give HADACOL a chance to help you as it has helped countless thousands of others. Remember there are no substitutes for HADACOL. Always insist on the genuine HADACOL. No one involved. Buy a bottle of HADACOL, either the trial size $1.25 or the large family or hospital size, $3.50, and if HADACOL does not help you your money will be refunded.

Pasteurizing For Fruits and Vegetables

Health Insurance For Picnics and Group Repasts

By Alton L. Blakeslee
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., July 22 — (P) — Pasteurizing fruits and vegetables for picnics and group repasts is health insurance, says Dr. William Rudolph, of Rutgers University.

The pasteurizing is something new and easy to do. It sends from only showing that raw vegetables are often fairly diseased germs.

The germs can go aboard vegetables when they are harvested or handled by persons with intestinal infections or when crops are fertilized with animal manure or sewage.

They also may come when food is prepared by one who is healthy, but who are carriers of typhoid or other diseases.

Cooking vegetables kills all germs. But raw food looks better. Carrots or fruit may still harbor germs even after they have been washed.

Is Germ Killer

The pasteurizing kills the germs. I can prevent the spread of typhoid, cholera, dysentery and other infections. It is a practical idea to follow when many people continue to eat food to a picnic outing or church supper.

Dr. Rudolph, chairman of the department of sanitation at the state university, said to pasteurize you put vegetables in 140-degree water for 15 minutes. This is the temperature used to pasteurize milk. Water at this temperature doesn't change the taste, color or crispness of tomatoes, lettuce, spinach.

... of apples, Dr. Rudolph. The main use of pasteurization is in military camps, Dr. Rudolph said. Housewives could do it, but the risk of getting contaminated vegetables doesn't make it worth while as a daily practice.

Pasteurizing might be a smart idea when there are outbreaks of so-called summer diarrhea or when many different people contribute food for a picnic or supper.

Some outbreaks of typhoid fever have been traced to such gatherings, with contaminated law foods suspected as the cause, Dr. Rudolph said.

Population of the USSR was increasing at the rate of more than a million a year in the decade before 1939.

The germs were bacteria, amoeba and other organisms that cause intestinal diseases. Washing in water sometimes removed the germs. Disinfectants often did the job—but not all the time. Pasteurization was one of the best and surest methods.

Work Out Operas Where Pilgrims Sang The Psalms

By Mary Prim

PLYMOUTH Mass., July 22.—(P)—Opera students in shorts and slacks are practicing arias where the Mayflower Pilgrims sang the psalms.

Swinging into its fifth season, Plymouth Rock Summer Music Center already has some 85 aspiring opera singers guest artists and instructors in tents and buildings on its seaside campus.

Former opera singer David Blair McClosky set up the project in an old warehouse on land owned by his family since Puritan times.

His idea was to give young American singers the professional experience he had to travel abroad to get.

He opened up in 1946 with six students—girls who had come from his voice class at the University of Syracuse.

"We had to start off with a production of Handel and Götter," he recalled, "because we had only one musical part—the father I sang that."

In the works for the several week season are complete operas two of which will be world premieres. The center also has a 40-piece symphony orchestra of students and professionals from many of the country's leading symphonies.

Each student receives a grant, at least one or two or three before the opera season ends August 11.

The young men live in a large tent. The girls are accommodated in the old family home—stead on Kingston Bay. That weathered frame building overlooks Clark's island where the Mayflower passengers held their first Sunday service in the new world.

The boys under canvas insist on having a grand piano jammed into one tent so as to be on time getting to work. Among them are four GI students. However, some complain that early-bird girl students often grab the key-board before the tent dwellers can finish making their beds.

McClosky said the students are so thrilled at appearing with "top-notch opera stars," they're practicing until midnight.

First of the guest stars to arrive was blonde Ellen Faulk, fresh from triumphs at the New York City Center opera.

A dramatic soprano she sang Donna Anna in Don Giovanni at the center's opening production, July 7 and 8 in Plymouth's 2,500-seat Memorial hall.

The opera aspirants get to sing with Metropolitan Opera star Dorothea Mantsch Aug. 4, 5, and 6, when the "Legend of Hex Mountain" has its world premiere.

All-Met Event

That will be an all-Met occasion as the opera is the work of Florence Wickham who sang with the company before World War I.

McClosky said she is probably the first woman in history to write a complete opera—words, music and libretto. She found the material among the Amish people who live near her Philadelphia home.

The second world premiere will be "The Ode of Osbert" by Allan Davis of Syracuse, N. Y. to be presented Aug. 11 as part of a double bill.

"It's based on a P. G. Woodhouse story of a 'hings' chucked McClosky.

The companion piece will be "The Jumping Frog" by Lukas Foss, a protégé of former Boston Symphony Orchestra conductor Serge Koussevitzky. Both composers are under 30.

Other guest stars scheduled to take part in the center's subscription series in Memorial hall are Leon Roth of the Metropolitan Opera, Monica Corvino of the Vienna State Opera, and Evelyn Keller, New York City Center Opera.

Hans Busch, son of Metropolitan Opera conductor Fritz Busch, is stage director. He brings a

Discuss Moves Aimed to Control Profiteering

Indications Are Some Controls On The Economy

By Jack Bell
WASHINGTON, July 22—(P)—The possibility of price-wage controls was discussed in administration circles in Congress today. Lawmakers demanded action to take the profits out of the Korean war.

Most of these demands came in the form of proposals for early enactment of an excess profits tax aimed at profiteering.

But one administration official who declined to be quoted by name told a reporter that unless there is a recession in rapidly increasing prices, controls of that nature may not be far away.

President Truman left the road open in his Wednesday message to Congress to call later for such curbs on the economy but they were omitted from the administration's defense production bill.

Administration lieutenants said they have the votes lined up to get that measure approved by the Senate banking committee late next week, although they conceded they may have to make changes in some of its provisions.

Some Republicans complained that the powers requested by the President are too broad. Some Democrats said they don't want Congress to vote authority in the bill for the government to go into competition with private business.

Hearings Begin Monday
Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) a member of the banking committee which will begin hearings on the economic control bill Monday, told a reporter he thinks the best way of avoiding price controls is to clamp increased taxes on those who might be tempted to profiteer in war production or in consumer goods.

On Capitol Hill, there seemed little doubt that a stiff excess profits levy would be included in a tax increase President Truman said he will propose to Congress later. Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the House ways and means committee said such a levy "is worthy of serious consideration."

While a presidential tax increase proposal may be made soon, congressional leaders indicated it isn't likely to find its way to the floor of either house until this fall or winter.

Doughton indicated that any new tax bill would become effective next Jan. 1. He said war costs should be on a pay-as-you-go basis as far as possible "without wrecking or shattering our economy."

Clear evidence that many people are on a buying spree was offered in a federal reserve board report which said department store sales last week rose 24 per cent over the corresponding week a year ago.

This was the largest increase of any week this year. It was announced just one day after Mr. Truman's advice to the public that panic buying and hoarding is wrong and foolish.

The President said that there is plenty of food on hand and urged that consumers not hurt themselves by forcing prices up. The agriculture department is at work on a report, due Saturday night, to show that there is plenty of food and no justification for hoarding and price increases.

Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) reported that "there has been a spectacular and unreasonable rise since the start of the war." He called food price increases "vicious, unjustifiable and unpatriotic" and promised a diligent investigation by his agriculture subcommittee.

Thus far there has been more talk of possible price controls than wage controls, but the two generally have been considered as a hand-in-hand proposition.

The control bill now before Congress would provide for allocation of steel and other materials to defense plants if necessary, power to limit production of civilian goods, restoration of consumer credit controls, and government authority to "transport, store, process and refine" materials.

Allison Quizzed on Socialized Medicine
KANSAS CITY, July 22—(P)—A committee from the Jackson County Medical Society quizzed candidate Emery W. Allison of Rella Friday on the subject of socialized medicine.

Allison, Truman-favored candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator in the Aug. 1 primary election, told the doctors he was against anything to socialize the profession.

The candidate, a state senator now, also told the committee, headed by Dr. Max Goldman, that he was against compulsory health insurance.

Four hundred persons attended a reception for Allison in the afternoon. Earlier he had attended a luncheon. He goes to Jefferson City tomorrow.

Charles C. Shafer, Jr., was appointed chairman of speakers for Allison in Jackson, Clay, Platte, Cass and Ray counties.

A Few Weeks Ago Truman Was Optimistic Over the Peace

By J. M. Roberts, Jr.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Only a few weeks ago the rearmament of western Europe was considered more or less of an adjunct of the Marshall plan.

Only a few weeks ago President Truman said he thought there was an improved outlook for peace. The Atlantic pact was entered into to take care of what was considered an outside chance, and as a deterrent.

By Passing Marshall Plan
Today the Marshall plan is being more or less by passed, and the actual military security of the allied anti-Communist perimeter has become the paramount thing.

How quickly the situation has changed is pointed up by the European arms aid appropriation passed this week.

Started through Congress before the display in Korea of Communist intent to use direct military aggression in its expansion program, this measure, in addition to direct arms aid, provides only for payment for raw materials and machinery needed for munitions production in Europe.

When the Atlantic pact foreign ministers met in London it was supposed that this military production would be in addition to and not interfere with the regular economic effort.

Converting Production
Now the Europeans are considering stepping up their efforts and converting peacetime production into war production. Washington is considering a straight dollar subsidy for the purpose, to avoid new dollar shortage troubles which such a cutback in export goods would produce.

Under the plan, the U. S. might pay France directly in dollars for rifles which would be delivered to Belgium, thus paying for the loss in, say, automobiles for export. This is believed necessary to get the Europeans to greatly increase their own defense expenditures, which their finance ministers say they are not now able to do without interfering with economic recovery.

More Support On Way
In addition, the United States is expected to go all out in providing its own share of European arms. Where this week's bill provided only a billion and a quarter dollars for the purpose, now there is talk of five billions more. That will mean an effort to do immediately what originally was considered a five year job.

Another sign of the new urgency is contained in the plans for next week's Atlantic Council meeting in London. Originally designed as an organization meeting—the American representative was sworn in only this last Thursday.

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., July 22—(P)—Robert Moore, a lieutenant commander in the Naval reserve, was just a little nervous when he received a letter from the Department of the Navy. It wasn't a call to active duty, however.

The letter informed him that that package he lost in a Navy shipment eight years ago had been found at Ogden, Utah, and would be please identify the contents.

Moore said he had forgotten about the package, but thought it contained civilian clothing.

Banker's Gray is new this year and I know that you will like it. It is white or green. Your suit is white or green. A little shorter than last year. You'll see. Cambric gray in suits—with a white blouse and black accessories you'll be very proud of yourself.

See you at... the 'Country Club'

All week we've had someone policing the pool to see that too many people didn't go in. Very funny! Such a break in the weather. We should have spent the money for coal. Nevertheless every cloud has a silver lining so we're counting on that today. Old Man Sunshine—better shine.

This evening at 8:00 o'clock the much talked about style show is taking place. Old fashioned swim suits and modern ones too. Ages from one to 60 participating and, if you're shooting 73, "which is poor"—come on in anyway.

(I seem to be mixing golf with another subject here. Remember, last week I said, "Charles Fritters shot a 73 in golf, which is poor?" I meant "par." Never explain a joke—it isn't funny.)

The ladies on the committee in charge of the grand opening of the pool are: Mrs. Alan Tawse, Mrs. C. W. Matheson, Mrs. Phil Costello, Mrs. Oliver Steed, Mrs. H. E. Gouge, Mrs. H. M. Hall and Mrs. Dick Sklar. Dick Sklar will be master of ceremonies, announcing all events as they take place.

This is really the official opening. It has been so cold all week that only the bravest have been in the pool. Believe me—we're going through with things today. Sun or no sun. Regular Sunday night supper will follow, so don't forget your reservations.

Just a word about our life guard. He is Frank Armstrong, Jr., and he was life guard at the public pool for two years. He asked me not to build him up too much—girls, he doesn't need it. I only want you to know how lucky we are to have such a fine boy as life guard. He'll be at the pool from 9:00 to 12:00 and from 1:00 to 5:00, then from 6:30 to dusk each day. Sundays from 12:00 to dusk. That's pretty fair and you and your children will have protection during those hours.

Frank is anxious to give lessons and you can make your arrangements with him. He'll know the best time to give lessons and to also give us the protection we need at the pool. We've only allowed Frank time to eat, so I'm sure we can all cooperate. If we have any special swimming parties these will have to be cleared through the swimming pool committee and arrangements can be made with Frank for his services at such parties. We all want to get the very most out of the pool, without any unnecessary mishaps.

Speaking of lessons, Norman Scotten, our pro, has been kept busy giving golf lessons. With such enthusiasm for golf it is necessary for Norman to devote all of his time to golf. He is starting what he calls his "Swing Club" for children under 14 years of age. This will consist of group lessons with individual attention where it is needed. Naturally these lessons won't cost as much as for the older group. The Swing Club will take place in the morning with lunch served afterwards. Funny thing—under 14—boys and girls both like hamburgers, milk and ice cream.

Talk to Norman about your youngsters joining the Swing Club. This age group is the ideal group to learn the fundamentals of good golf.

The ladies have been braving the cold this week too. Tuesday they were rained out and in general had a bad day. In spite of the weather several completed nine holes of the Bling Bogey event. Mrs. Aubrey Owen was first for the men because it does go and Mrs. Carl Oswald second. Next week's events are in the played this Sunday—today. I will. Next week's events are in the played this Sunday—today. I will. Next week's events are in the played this Sunday—today. I will.

Ladies Day this week had as winners in bridge: Mrs. C. P. Miller, Mrs. D. P. Dyer, Mrs. C. R. Bohnwell, Mrs. C. E. Yeater, and Mrs. Dave Routzong. In canasta: Mrs. Lawrence Barnett and Mrs. Victor Scott.

Have I been a little quiet about the men's golf? I didn't mean to be. The club championship is going on—and really—I'm holding my breath to the finish. The championship play takes four weeks and I'll surely give you all the information I get from week to week. Seems a shame that I can't tell you more about golf event. Mrs. Aubrey Owen was first for the men because it does go and Mrs. Carl Oswald second. Next week's events are in the played this Sunday—today. I will. Next week's events are in the played this Sunday—today. I will.
